On
BOOK TALK With Author Dr. Tanaya Narendra
At East Street Camp, Pune

Date- 7th January 2023

The students of department of journalism & mass communication took up an initiative to attend a book talk of a socially renowned & intellectual Doctor & Author Mrs. Tanaya Narendra aka @Dr_Cuterus. On 6th January at Express Book Services, East Street Camp area under the guidance of Prof Pallavi Bongane. At the event the talk was briefly introduced by the author & with this students got the chance to actively participate in the conversation & ask meaningful questions to her regarding the book, her journey & queries related to these issues & practices.

The motive behind attending the event was to experience how book talks & such events are taken up with getting knowledge about an important topic which is rarely discussed in our society & book as a tool of communication itself serve as a medium for students & everyone else to teach & serve out knowledge. The student got the chance to interact with the author & talk about the journey of the book & her thoughts & ideas behind working on such a magnificent piece of art & knowledge.

About the Guest

Dr. Tanaya is an internationally trained medical doctor, embryologist, and scientist who is passionate about medical education. After studying for a masters at the University of Oxford, she subsequently registered as a doctor in England, and committed to making public medical education her life goal. She was awarded Influencer of The Year 2020 by SH24 – the online sexual health partner of the NHS, UK. Currently aside from working as a doctor at Abhilasha Hospital and Fertility Center, Allahabad, she is writing her book on sex ed for everyone with Penguin Random House; is an elected Fellow of the Royal Society For Public Health; and runs her own Instagram and YouTube channel @Dr.Cuterus dedicated to public medical education.

About The book

This Book is kind of an introduction of The human body, especially about the parts we as a society don't frequently talk about. It provides information & educates people about their mental & sexual health in a simple & brief manner which has the power to impact greater youth. As a present scenario sex education plays a greater role in the forming of mindset & healthy society which reduces the criminal mindset of youth in hunger of negative energy.

Conclusion

The event turned out to be a meaningful & healthy conversation & interaction with the author & having a great experience of a book talk and exposure about how this form of communication works in the society & how as the student of media they can work on different aspects of tolls of communication.
